

What is Indonesia doing with solar energy?

The Indonesian government has moved forward with the amendment of Energy and Mineral Resources Ministerial Regulation No. 26/2021 on on-grid solar systems and energy distribution and eliminated a key provision that previously allowed homeowners with rooftop solar panels to sell excess energy back to the national electricity firm, PLN.

Will a new solar Grant help the Indonesian energy sector?

Director General of New, Renewable Energy and Energy Conservation of the Ministry of EMR Dadan Kusdiana and Senior Advisor for Sustainable Energy of UNDP Indonesia Verania Andria, who were also present at the launching, hoped that the grant will provide relief from the investment costs of rooftop solar systems.

Will Indonesia reach 3.6GW of rooftop solar capacity by 2025?

IESR added that even with the release of the new quota, it is still not in line with the National Strategic Plan target set in 2021 to reach 3.6GW of rooftop solar capacity by 2025. As of May 2024, Indonesia's installed rooftop solar capacity was only 0.192 MWp, according to research firm Rystad Energy. Are the goals achievable?

Can businesses increase investment in Indonesia's rooftop solar PV sector?

This removal of capacity limits (subject to quota requirements) offers some scope for businesses to increase investments in Indonesia's Rooftop Solar PV sector (assuming that the development quotas continue to grow in line with Indonesia's national energy policy).

Should new rooftop solar PV systems in Indonesia be removed?

The removal of capacity charges for all new Rooftop Solar PV systems in Indonesia should be welcomed by the industry, particularly those planning to operate on a net-import basis.

Will PLN change the rooftop solar PV market in Indonesia?

Since nearly all Rooftop Solar PV systems in Indonesia (particularly those involving PLN) currently operate on a net-import basis, in practice, the impact of this change on the existing market should be relatively minimal. Nonetheless, this is a new restriction on the future potential of the Rooftop Solar PV sector in Indonesia.
